A Mining Company that will operate, not on one claim, but on many

A Mining Company that intends to have many paying mines

The stock of the company will rapidly go to par and above, and the company will be a big dividend payer.

BECAUSE

The Goldfield Diamond Drilling and Mining Company is a mining company; it is also a mining company with a business feature that will give the Company an income from the day it puts its first drills to work.

Goldfield is new, it has only just become learned that the gold ore lays in zones in the district, and just realized that these zones can be located, assayed, and their value determined with diamond drills.

With one 1,000 foot drill it can bore 20 prospect holes of 1,000 foot depth, pull the cores and assay every foot of them for less money and in one-tenth of the time that it could sink and timber one 500 foot shaft of the same ground.

The Goldfield Diamond Drilling and Mining Company will put six diamond drills in the field. The income from two of these drills on each act work will pay for operating four drills on crown claims, or on claims we may lease. When high grade ore is struck the income from our drills on contract will pay for sinking shafts. In brief, the Goldfield Diamond Drilling and Mining Company is a mining company that after its first equipment of drills is in the field will be self-supporting.

The company will mine the ore it locates, and that it will locate ore in this rich district is a fact beyond question. The possibilities of the Company are unlimited.
